

Today I am going to the CARE lab. The CARE lab does research about how kids think.

First, I will go into a waiting room, where I can play games and relax.

In the waiting room, I will meet the research team. I can choose if I want to participate. I can say “no” or “I am done” at any time.

Then, a research member and I will go into a room to work with blocks and look at pictures.

Then, I will take a break. I can go back into the waiting room to relax if I want. My adult will be near.

Then, I will go back into the room to play with toys, look at pictures and books, and answer some more questions.

Then, I will be all done. I will get a certificate for helping science. Then, I can leave!
